Outer Forts Damaged By Guns of Great Caliber---Turks Claim Three Vessels Badly Damaged By Fort Fire.

shots from guns of great caliber. "Three hostile armored ships were damaged, one of them, a flagship, was damaged severely."

London, February 20.—The third day of the German submarine blockade was ushered in without Great Britain's retaliatory policy, declaring all goods destined for Germany to be absolute contraband, being definitely promulgated through the Foreign Office.

The British reply to the American note regarding the Wilhelmina incident presages that such action will be taken and, as the document points out, Great Britain hopes, when she takes this step, to meet with no objection from neutral countries.

German movements on the northern extremity of the eastern battle front holds first place in the military situation, particularly so, as Petrograd believes that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in trying to flank Warsaw from the north, a task which the Russians think is rather daring and fraught with great risks, unless the German commander's forces are overwhelming.

The first rush of the Germans over the East Prussian frontier seems to have spent itself. The Germans are now reported to be locked with Russian reinforcements at many points from the Nieman river, below Kovna, down the right of the lower Vistula, and military experts in London say it is difficult to visualize this position.

The campaign in the Austrian crownland of Bukovina continues with prospects of developing into a decisive battle on the banks of the river Pruth.

In Galicia the repeated violent Austrian attacks against the Russian position in the Carpathian passes have been costly to both sides, and they have left the alignment little changed.

In the west the Germans are hammering away in an endeavor to recover lost ground, and are reported to be keeping the British troops especially busy to the southeast of Ypres, in Belgium, and elsewhere along their comparatively extended front, but, according to French and British claims, without making appreciable gains.

Athens, via London, Feb. 20.—It is reported here that the Anglo-French fleet destroyed Turkish forts on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles during the bombardment this morning.

The forts on the European side subsequently were attacked and are still firing.

Amsterdam, via London, Feb. 20. The following official statement gives the following official statement issued by the Turkish War Office: "Early Saturday morning British and French ships renewed their bombardment of the outer forts of the Dardanelles, firing 400 shots without much success. One soldier was slightly wounded by a fragment of stone.

"Eight armored Anglo-French ships bombarded the outer forts of the Dardanelles for seven hours without silencing them. The enemy fired

LITTLE TO ADJUDICATE

By Associated Press. London, February 20.—The case of the American steamship Wilhelmina, whose cargo of food stuffs was seized by the British authorities, probably will be taken before a prize court soon, and it is expected that the hearing will be brief.

A. H. Hays, attorney for the owners of the Wilhelmina, is of the opinion that there will be no dispute as to the main facts and that the prize court will have nothing to adjudicate beyond the international question involved.

MEXICANS HOLD PRIESTS CAPTIVE

By Associated Press. Washington, Feb. 20.—All the native Roman Catholic clergy in Mexico City are being held for a half million dollars ransom, official advices from diplomats in the Mexican capital received here today say, and the only ones exempted are those of foreign nationality, who have been ordered to leave the country.

BROKER MAKES GRAVE CHARGES

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Charges that representatives of foreign shipping interests control principal committees of many chambers of commerce, board of trade and maritime exchanges, and have "honeycombed" the American maritime field, were made today by Wallace Downey, a New York ship broker before the special senate committee investigating the alleged lobby against the Administration ship bill.

WORLD FAIR NOW OPEN

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—The gates of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition swung open to the world today.

Forty-one foreign nations and 43 states and three territories of the American Union participated.

"This is the world in epitome," said Dr. Frederick J. V. Skiff, the Director in Chief, in a brief dedicatory address.

Salvos of artillery, salutes, shrieking whistles and sirens had awakened the city at dawn. The day had been declared a legal holiday and nearly all the business houses and factories were closed to permit their employees to march in the gigantic parade, which early took possession of the grounds.

In the parade were Secretary Lane, of the Department of the Interior, representing President Wilson, and Governor Johnson, of California.

The formal aspect of the dedication was made as short and simple as possible. The formal opening of the exposition was at noon when President Wilson, by an electric signal from Washington, set the wheels in motion.

RACE WAR IN MISSOURI

By Associated Press.

New Madrid, Mo., Feb. 20.—As the result of the warnings of "night riders" that they must leave the district before Tuesday morning, nearly 300 negroes left New Madrid last night and this morning. Thus far there has been no violence.

The trouble between the whites and the negroes seems to have its origin in the land rental system.

AMERICAN BOAT REACHES PORT

By Associated Press.

Amsterdam, February 20.—The American steamship J. L. Luckenbach, which left Boston January 27 with a cargo of cotton and wool for Bremen, arrived at the latter port today.

The pilot, who boarded the vessel at Ymuiden, was arrested but later was released on proving that he was a Dutchman.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Official text of Germany's reply to the American note on the naval war zone, and Great Britain's replies to the American notes on the use of the American flag and the Wilhelmina case, all arrived today at the State Department.

The comparatively prompt replies at the London and Berlin Foreign Offices again places upon the State Department responsibility for the next step in the negotiations.

The British reply on the Wilhelmina case probably will stop further exchanges until a prize court has been set.

No official would today predict the nature of the rejoinder the American government might make to the German reply on the war zone.

HOUSE PASSES PENSION BILL

Washington, Feb. 20.—Confronted with the necessity of appropriating $90,000,000 a day for the next eleven legislative days, congress settled down to hurry through the measures which will supply the $1,000,000,000 needed to run the government during the next fiscal year. The sum of $160,000 was set aside for President Wilson's use during the Panama-Pacific exposition.

In the senate the entire day was devoted to the $39,000,000 legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. The house passed the pension bill, carrying $154,000,000, and took up the diplomatic and consular measure, appropriating $4,500,000.

Beyond the naming of the house conferees, the ship purchase bill received no attention, reposing in the custody of the conference committee, where it will remain under the agreement reached in the senate until Feb. 27. The ship bill investigation also is at a standstill.

URGES WILSON TO CALL GREAT ARMY

Washington, Feb. 20.—Under the thrilling title, "A Call to Arms", the Army and Navy Journal in an editorial today says:

"If President Wilson consults his military advisers he will ask authority from Congress to mobilize an army of 1,000,000 volunteers, not for the purpose of making war, but of avoiding war by preserving neutrality and maintaining our honor and dignity.

"Placing a million volunteers under training would amount to a declaration that the United States is preparing to insist upon its rights and resist aggression. It would be a measure of peace, as it might possibly avert the war toward which we are fast drifting, as every student of military history must see, and it would at least partly prepare us to meet the shock of war if war must come. It would also go far to solve the problem of unemployed labor with which we are contending.

"The mobilization of volunteer troops at this time could not be construed as a hostile demonstration against any nation. It would only amount to a preparation for future developments in the world-wide war. Switzerland and Holland have mobilized their troops to maintain their neutrality, and similar steps are being taken by Italy. None of these nations is more vitally interested or deeply involved in the European war than is the United States, at the present time.

"The necessity of calling out a volunteer army is made more urgent because of the peace-at-any-price policy which is being preached so vociferously from the housetops with the tacit, if not with the open, approval of those in authority. Foreign nations not only realize that we are not prepared to defend ourselves, but are under the impression that we never will be.

"On this account neither Germany nor Great Britain is giving any serious consideration to the protests of the State Department, except in words, and Japan is going ahead with its plans for the domination of China and the Pacific ocean without considering the wishes or the interests of this country.

"This is ominous of war, for in the end the belligerent instincts of this country, which are only lying dormant, will be aroused by a realization that our people have been misled by the false theories of the peace fanatics. Have those in authority forgotten how, after the firing upon Ft. Sumter, in 1861, and again, after the sinking of the Maine in 1898 war came like a flash out of a clear sky? He who rightly reads the signs of the heavens can see the war clouds once more gathering.

"If the President should call for such an army as is proposed, these aggressions on the part of the great Powers would cease, and is it not time that we showed our teeth? During the present war no one can afford to engage in hostilities with this country, although it is obvious to all that our State Department is not in a position to enforce any of its demands. Every step in the diplomatic controversy between Germany and the allies emphasizes the unpreparedness of this nation to defend itself against aggression."

ty that it would not be a breach of professional ethics to make known the physical condition of a patient to his fiancée or her immediate relatives.

Without recommendation, which means that a fight will be made upon it, the Hoy resolution for an investigation of the state civil service commission was reported to the house by the civil service committee.

The Yeatman bill for tax exemption of $200 of personal property was reported favorably. In its present shape it applies the exemption to all persons and is not confined to the heads of families.

The short budget bill was set for a vote Tuesday. Amendments, including $80,000 for the state art gallery, increased the total to $6,549,000.

Not to be outdone by the Republicans in salary slashing, Representative Nungesser of Crawford, a second term Democrat, introduced a bill to cut down the pay of the judiciary. He would cut the chief justice of the supreme court from $7,000 to $6,000, justices of the supreme court from $6,500 to $5,500; appellate judges from $6,000 to $5,000, and reduce the state pay of common pleas judges from $3,000 to $2,500.

In addition to state remuneration the common pleas judges are paid by the counties $25 for each 1,000 population up to a maximum of $3,000. The Nungesser bill cuts this allowance to $15 per 1,000. In the more populous counties common pleas judges would receive more pay than the judges of the courts of appeals, though municipal courts have taken, or soon will take, a considerable part of the work of the common pleas court and the new constitution has greatly increased the work of the appellate courts.

ACTIVITY AT FRONT

London, Feb. 20.—For several days past the fighting in the western arena of the war would seem, judging from the reports reaching London, to have been in favor of the allies. The Germans have been counter attacking violently, but they appear to have had heavy losses. The pressure of the allies has no doubt been timed to keep the Germans busy during developments in the east and to prevent the withdrawing of forces for the relief of the eastern line, as was done in December.

All reports agree that the Austrians at last have flung the Russians entirely out of Bukovina. The Russians claim that they retired in good order, but they do not seek to deny their retreat.

Economy Stock Powders

PROVEN BEST BY TEST

A SENSIBLE COMPOUND FOR SENSIBLE FEEDERS

Means Healthy Hogs—More Pork—Less Feed and More Profits to You

ECONOMY STOCK POWDERS have proven themselves worthy of the name they bear. They have been tested and not found wanting. What more could you ask? ECONOMY STOCK POWDERS are sold on their own merits. They sell themselves. ECONOMY means to save, to spare; it means thrift. The Powders uphold the name. ECONOMY—saves the hog, spares the feed, and means more profit to the feeder. That is why we have been enabled to build our business to the present proportions, and enjoy the reputation we now hold; that of being the largest manufacturers of Stock Powders in the world.

What Economy Stock Powders Are

THEY ARE a scientific compound composed of the Purest Drugs—such as Roots, Herbs and Sodas, carefully blended and proportioned. ECONOMY STOCK POWDERS have absolutely no connection with the so-called Stock Foods. They are better than Stock Foods, as they contain no filler, such as oil meals, bran, etc.

ECONOMY STOCK POWDERS also contain German Worm Seed, an ingredient which absolutely destroys and removes the hog's greatest enemy, "WORMS."

Nine Reasons why you Should Feed Economy

1. It acts directly upon the Affected Parts.
2. It Cools the Blood.
3. It Suppresses Fever in the Stomach.
4. It Aids Digestion.
5. It EXPELS ALL WORMS.
6. It Loosens the Bowels.
7. It Sweetens the Stomach.
8. It Regulates the Liver.
9. It Works on the Pancreatic Glands, and Prevents Constipation.

The Comparative Cost of Economy Powders

As a general rule, it will require from five to eight pounds of Economy powders to each hog from the time it is born until it goes to market. Some hogs require more and some less. Therefore, if you have a herd of 100 pigs, you will require from 500 to 800 pounds of these Powders to insure their going to market in perfect health. This may sound pretty big to some, but when you stop to figure the saving in grain, the general condition of the hogs, the gain it makes while being fed ECONOMY, you will find that you have saved money in feeding the POWDERS.

A herd of 100 head when put to market at the present prices, is worth $2000.00 or better, and if you can not afford to put $80.00 to $100.00 against this number of hogs, insuring them to go to market, you can not afford to take the time and care you give them, and feed up this high priced grain.

There is not a farmer but what knows that if he keeps a hog's blood pure, stomach sweet, free from constipation and worms, that every pound of corn which he feeds goes to making pounds of fat and growth, and that is MONEY.

CHAIRMAN WALSH MAKES SHARP REPLY

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 20.—Replying to the statement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who charged him with distorting facts in connection with the testimony given by the oil financier before the United States commission on industrial relations in New York city, Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission, declared that the funds of the Rockefeller foundation might be used in strikebreaking, and quoted Dr. George W. Kircaway, for ten years dean of the Columbia university law school, as his authority. Mr. Walsh said in part:

"The Rockefeller group have a publicity bureau, presided over by one Ivy L. Lee. Mr. Lee was the writer of the now notorious series of bulletins entitled 'Facts in regard to the Colorado Strike.' These bulletins were proved by the confessions of Lee, President Wellbourne of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and others to have been untruthful and misleading. After the untruthful nature of the bulletins was fully exposed, Mr. Lee was appointed to the personal staff of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and elected a director in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

"What makes Mr. Rockefeller and his group stand out in bold relief is the unexampled extent of their potential power over the workers in industry. If I had violated the canons of good taste, which I deny, in thus discussing these great underlying questions, Mr. Rockefeller is the last man in the world from whom I should receive rebuke.

must, the autocratic assumption of Mr. Rockefeller that it is within his province either to criticize my actions or to interpret the will of congress. The Young Man And Politics
In addressing the Senior class, President Hadley of Yale college said: "No man has a right to enter politics under present conditions unless he has independent means."
That is rather a remarkable statement for any man to make in this country and especially is it remarkable, coming from a man possessing the wide experience and the mental attainments that the distinguished Yale "prexy" possesses. Preaching that sort of doctrine to the educated youth of the nation will do more to stop progress and bring about a return of stand partisan and commercialism than any effort which predatory interests and combined wealth could possibly exert.

Some times progressive men become discouraged when the people fail to appreciate the value of the work that has been done for them and return time after time to the protecting wing of the commercial interests for temporary relief rather than endure for a time passing ills for the reward of permanent relief in the future. Sometimes a promising young man is ruined financially and morally in the whirlpool of politics, but they are the exceptions and not the rule. Politics has its dangers and its temptations. All must admit that to be true, but that the mentally and morally strong should shun the duty which every American owes to his country, to take an active interest in politics, and surrender that most important field of activity, without a contest, to the financially strong, even though they be mentally and morally deficient, few people will believe.

American politics is the battle ground of the people, and in the bloodless warfare there the people must contest—the destinies of the nation are worked out. Patriotism must clash with greed, morality with immorality, honesty with dishonesty and progress with decadence. Where else on the round globe has the intelligent and the moral citizenship the opportunity to bring about a complete governmental revolution that the arena of American politics affords.

It is the most important field of endeavor in a great nation like this—the place above all others where the young man has abundant opportunity to do good for his government and to establish for himself a reputation that will endure longer than the most enormous fortune that man can accumulate. Our institutions would not long be safe for the people of this land if the great middle classes abandoned the field of politics. The very life of the institutions of this people depends upon the activities of the middle classes. The president of Yale is decidedly wrong in advising the strong young men of the middle classes to steer clear of politics. That's the very field of activity for them to select—not for job holding or office seeking, but for the purpose of discharging an obligation which they owe to their country.

What would become of the great middle classes, the bulwark of the republic if Professor Hadley's advice was taken seriously and the field of politics surrendered absolutely to those few who possessed independent fortunes

A Sign Of The Times
About two weeks ago the Pennsylvania Railroad company placed on the market bonds of the face value of forty-nine million dollars and prior to the issuance of the bonds the public had sent in subscriptions for the bonds aggregating nearly two hundred and fifty million dollars.
The bonds were subscribed for by the public and the total subscriptions received proved that the American public was not only willing to furnish the money for that bond issue but was willing and able to take five times the amount which the Pennsylvania Company was offering. Those bonds are only to bear interest at a rate of four and one-half per cent too. In a very short time the New York Central railroad is going to ask the American public to furnish the money for one hundred millions of bonds, to bear six per cent interest and there is little doubt that the issue will be over-subscribed. The eagerness with which the Pennsylvania bonds were subscribed for and the evident anxiety of the public to subscribe for the New York Central bonds is a very important sign of the times. It is proof conclusive that the people have the money and that they are beginning to realize that they must quit hoarding it and put it to work. If the nation was suffering from a financial stringency the "hard times" era would be farther away. These enormous transactions show that the trouble has been "psychical" rather than real and that as soon as confidence returns the trouble will be over. It is important too as an indication that confidence is returning—that it has returned so far as the higher classes of securities is concerned—and knowing that we must know also that the time when that returned confidence will embrace all securities and all business activity is not far in the future. The inactivity of the stock and bond market is the first indication of business depression and returning prosperity. Long experience has proven both signs to be infallible. Subsequent events have also been true to the indications of stock and bond market.

Poetry For Today
THE NAMELESS STREAM.
I found a Nameless Stream among the hills,
And traced its course through many a changeable scene;
Now gliding free through grassy uplands green
And stately forests—fed by limpid rills,
Now dashing through dark grottoes, where distills
The poison dew; then issuing all serene
'Mong flowery meads, where snow-white lilies screen
The wild swan's whiter breast. At length it fills
Its deepening channels—flowing, calmly on
To join the ocean on his billowy beach.
—But that bright bourne its current ne'er shall reach:
It meets the thirsty Desert—and is gone
To waste oblivion! Let its story teach
The fate of one who sinks, like it, unknown.
—Thomas Pringle.

DAVID CAPLAN UNDER ARREST
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 20.—David Caplan, last of the men wanted at Los Angeles, Cal., in connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building in the fall of 1910, was arrested on his chicken ranch two miles inland from Rolling Bay, Bainsbridge Island, twelve miles from Seattle. Caplan, according to Walter R. Thayer, manager of the Seattle branch of the Burns detective agency, admitted his identity and expressed a willingness to return to Los Angeles for trial. He was taken to Port Orchard, county seat of Kitsap county, where he was placed in jail under an armed guard. For two years he had been living under the name of Frank Moller on a small chicken ranch back of Rolling Bay. He also conducted a barber shop in Rolling Bay. He was found, Thayer said, through information gathered after the arrest of Schmidt last Saturday in New York.

"I'm going down to Florida on a little pleasure trip," replied Jones.
"Is your wife going along?" asked Brown.
"Didn't I tell you that this was a pleasure trip?" responded Jones.

When you notice that people are trying to dodge you when they see you, you can usually discover the reason for their actions if you will get a mirror and look right under your nose.
Women have their faults, but you never saw one who shoveled her food into her mouth with a knife.
When a girl has such a powerful voice that you can hear her yelling for a square her fond mother sends her to take singing lessons, and the result is that you can hear her yelling for two squares.
When you fall in love with a pretty face you have to take the rest of the girl with it, so you might as well see that the pretty face is attached to a corn fed and get all the girl that is coming to you.
Some men are busy laying up treasures in heaven when they should be paying some attention to fire insurance.
The reason why a girl knows that a fellow is all right is because her father and mother know that he is no good.
Every man believes that he has good sense, but he couldn't prove it by the love letters he wrote to his wife before they were married.
A woman is a woman because she can understand things without giving them a thought.
The man who thinks he knows it all usually knows everything that isn't worth knowing.
If a man can't get the girl he wants he gets peeved and quits, but if a girl can't get the man she wants she goes and cops out the man some other girl wants.

IMPERIAL STAFF HAILED AS GREATEST IN ODD FELLOWSHIP

Canton, Ohio, Newspapers Praise Local Organization For the Great Work Conferred, and Marvel at Stage of Perfection Reached and Such a Staff From Small City.

Canton, Ohio, newspapers have been received in this city, containing write-ups on the recent appearance of Imperial Degree Staff, of this city, and the inimitable work conferred by the staff.

Extracts from the write-ups are given below to show how the larger cities regard the Imperial Staff which is placing this city on the map as it never before has been advertised.

Following are excerpts from the write-up carried by the Canton News: "With 4000 Odd Fellows present, representing every town in Stark county, various cities throughout the state, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana, West Virginia and Canada, the Imperial Degree Staff, composed of 75 men from Washington C. H., Wednesday night conferred the first degree upon 60 candidates in the auditorium.

"The affair was one of the largest ever held in this city by Odd Fellows and the impressive ceremony presented by the degree staff will long be remembered.

"The entire staff of the team, which numbers 83 men, is credited with being the best team in the country, and will attend the San Francisco exposition during the coming summer.

"The team carried a car-load of scenery and traveled in a special train. Because of the large amount of scenery used in putting on the degree, a number of the visitors were unable to find seats in the large auditorium.

"Six special trains were used to carry the visitors from Akron alone, and special trains were run from Cleveland and Youngstown.

"One of the chief places visited was McKinley's tomb. As the visitors alighted from the autos at the tomb they were lined up by their captain and they marched slowly up the long flight of steps and entered the tomb where silent homage was paid the dead ruler.

"With uncovered heads the men stood for one and one-half minutes in silent prayer. The scene was one of the most impressive ever witnessed at the tomb. Not until a command from the captain did the men begin to move about the interior.

"While Washington C. H. is a town of only about 8,000, Ohio can feel justly proud that within her borders is to be found one of the greatest teams, if not the greatest, in Odd Fellowship in America, beyond a doubt one of the finest in all the world—and, who knows, perhaps the best of its kind that Odd Fellowship ever saw," said a member of the local committee.

"It is also to be remembered that while the men composing this team are men in humble walks of life, farmers, blacksmiths, carpenters, etc., each man is a real artist in his respective part in this great and matchless drama.

"Time, money and toil have not been spared in the production of this splendid work. Five years ago the I. O. O. F. lodge of Washington C. H. had about 200 members. Today it has nearly 500 members. The present stage of perfection in this dramatization was only attained after four years of relentless effort on the part of the captain, after four years of drill by men composing it, and every man on the team, be he property man or principal actor, must know the Bible story to perfection."

No less complimentary is the account of the work carried by the Evening Repository of Canton.

W. H. S. LOSES TO FAST XENIA FIVE

Locals Had Difficulty in "Getting Started" But Put up Good Game Thereafter—Xenia Manager Praises Coach Schlabach.

Washington High School suffered one of its very few defeats of the season Friday evening on the home floor at the hands of Xenia High. Xenia carried off the bacon with a score of 32 to 24.

In the first half the locals could not get together, and such balls as reached the vicinity of the home basket refused to take the net. When the half closed Xenia had a lead of 17 to 4. The second half, however, saw some real basketball and the tussle was fast and furious, Washington having a shade the better of the contention.

Geyer and Cowden, opposing forwards, led their mates with six baskets each, and local forwards Hays and Gregg tied with four apiece. Johnson had the better of Vannorsdall in the foul throwing.

A feature of the game was the refereeing of Coach Schlabach. Coach and Umpire Carr of the Xenians stated before leaving Saturday morning that Mr. Schlabach was "one of the best and squarest" referees he had ever met.

The Xenia team left Saturday morning for Chillicothe where they play in the evening.

The lineups of Friday's game follow: Xenia—Geyer, Horen, Gowdy, forwards; Cowden, c; Ferguson, Vannorsdall, guards; McClellan, substitute.

Washington—Gregg, Hays, forwards; Johnson, center; Lloyd, Burnett, guards. Referee, Schlabach; Umpire, Carr.

SCARLET FEVER CASE UNDER QUARANTINE

A case of scarlet fever developed in the family of Elmer Davis, in Millwood, a few days ago, and is now under quarantine.

The disease usually attacks children, but in this instance the patient is nearly 19 years of age, and it is understood that quite a number of persons in that community have been exposed to the disease, and every precaution has been taken by the health authorities to prevent the disease spreading.

DEAD HONORED IN LAST RITES

One of the largest home funerals ever held in the county was that of Mr. R. W. Vincent, held at the Vincent homestead, now the residence of the son, Mr. Coke Vincent, and daughter, Miss May, near New Holland.

For many years Mr. Vincent had been a prominent farmer of this county, active in politics, a well known Mason and G. A. R. man, and from all of these ranks, as well as from the extensive circle of friends of both himself and his family, there were many representatives.

The commodious home and its wide veranda could not begin to hold the people, and the funeral was in every way a remarkable testimonial to the genial, sterling man who had responded to his last call.

Many business men, Masons and G. A. R. veterans were among those who drove out from Washington.

The Masonic lodge No. 392, F. & A. M., of New Holland, had charge of the impressive services, Rev. Born, of the West Holland circuit, the officiating minister.

The floral remembrances were magnificent, and in great number.

The burial was in the family lot of the New Holland cemetery, with the sons, Messrs. Earl, Coke and Wade Vincent, sons-in-law, Messrs. George Darlington and Ralph Timmons, and Mr. Frank Thompson, acting as pall-bearers.

Among those who came from a distance were the sister, Kate Day, of Wichita, Kan., and Mr. Eckert, of Waverly.

NOTED MAGICIAN IS ON LECTURE COURSE

Eugene Laurant, pronounced by many the greatest magician on the American platform, will give an exhibition of his clever work at Grace church, Monday night, and will be assisted by two or three clever helpers.

He comes as the fourth number of the Washington lecture course, and the entertainment promises to be one of the most interesting on the course. The work of Prof. Laurant is almost unbelievable, and is of absorbing interest to old and young in all walks of life.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Miss Laura Tharp, whose approaching marriage to Mr. Charles Hughes was recently announced, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower at which Miss Grace Andrews delightfully entertained twenty young women, at her hospitable country home.

The popular bride-to-be was showered with pretty gifts and music. Various diversions and dainty refreshments rounded up the evening's enjoyment.

DEATH OCCURS SATURDAY MORNING

Mrs. Christina Harper, aged 78, died Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, at the residence of her son, Mr. John Harper, on the Plymouth pike.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:00 p. m. at the Sugar Creek Baptist church. Burial in Sugar Creek churchyard.

REPORT ERRONEOUS

The reported death of Mr. John Lough, of near Greenfield, has proven incorrect, latest word stating that while in a very serious condition, Mr. Lough still lives, although little hope for his recovery has been expressed. His reported death was due to his extremely low condition, and the word having been spread throughout the neighborhood that death had resulted.

In Social Circles

A most enjoyable kensington was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Highmiller, it being the first of a series to be given by the Pythian Sisters. An old-fashioned "Spelling Bee" proved a good entertainer, with Mrs. Jesse Blackmer winning the prize, a pretty blooming narcissus. Mrs. Blackmer gracefully presented it to Mrs. Highmiller, it being the hostess' birthday.

Dainty refreshments were served. The afternoon's hostesses were Mesdames Highmiller, Joe Gillespie, Harley Flee, Madge McCrea, Morgan, F. M. McCoy, Hammond, T. C. DeWees, Miss Margaret DeWeese.

The children of the Sunnyside kindergarten were indebted to Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bell for a most delightful surprise on Friday afternoon, in the form of a bountiful treat of apples, oranges and bananas, while celebrating Washington's birthday.

Mrs. Bell and Miss Kerrigan were assisted by Mrs. Wolfe and little Dwight Bell who is a member of the kindergarten class.

Mrs. Frank S. Jackson entertained with an elaborate seven o'clock dinner of ten covers Friday evening in honor of Mr. Jackson's birthday.

An artistic centerpiece of jonquils and smilax, reflected back from a table mirror, garlanded in green in graceful decoration.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PARTY AT CENTRAL

Nothing has stirred to greater anticipation the children of Central Primary department of the Public schools, than the birthday parties, inaugurated by the four teachers, Miss Anna Bell, of the kindergarten; Miss Clara Haines, of the First grade; Miss Hattie Pinkerton, of Second, and Miss Prudence Culhan, the Third.

On Friday afternoon, with appropriate George Washington decorations, birthdays of the January and February pupils were celebrated, there being fifty-four little "birthdays".

Over a hundred and twenty-five visitors assembled in the wide corridor of Central and watched the 215 children of the four grades march and counter march and put on the stunts from each grade, with delighted appreciation. All wore red, white and blue caps and the sight was picturesque and patriotic.

The fifty-four birthday children, a garden of little human flowers, formed a circle at one end of the corridor and were honored guests for the afternoon.

The special feature was a big birthday cake with red, white and blue candles and big sticks of candy, that won enthusiastic approval from the tots.

Little Richard Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Miller, of Dayton, who was visiting here made a tremendous hit as "George Washington." In a beautiful suit of grey satin, with a white periwig and three cornered hat, he was as cunning and typical a "Father of our Country" as could be desired and a great applause followed his little speech.

The children presented each visitor with a souvenir hatchet and cherries, made by themselves for the occasion.

HAD SPENT HALF OF LIFE IN PEN

Just before the New Holland post-office robbers were given a hearing before United States Commissioner Evans, at Chillicothe, Friday afternoon, Charles Klein, a counterfeiter, was arraigned and held to the Federal grand jury.

It developed that the man was one of the most notorious counterfeiters in the country, and had spent 34 years of his 60 years of life, in prison. The man was recently released from the Ohio penitentiary, and within a short time was arrested again near West Jefferson, at which time a complete set of dies and moulds were found in the old log cabin where he had located.

NEW WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

This memorial to the first president will stand in the city of Washington and serve as a home for scientific, literary, artistic and other societies.

The building will cost when completed $2,000,000, part of which has already been raised by subscription. The design is the work of Cray & Swartwout, architects.

George Washington's Living Representative

As hereditary representative of George Washington in the Society of the Cincinnati and in virtue of direct, incontestable descent from an older half brother and a younger full brother of the first president, William Lanier Washington of New York city is recognized as the head of the Washington family. The distinction of representing the Father of His Country in the Cincinnati, the society of descendants of officers who served in the American army in the Revolutionary war, is most interesting in itself, since it carries with it recognition by historians and genealogists as being the leading male member of the Washington family.

WILLIAM LANIER WASHINGTON.

that he cannot and does not claim exclusive relationship to George Washington.

He is directly descended from Augustine Washington 2d, the eldest half brother of George Washington, who left issue. His only son, Colonel William Augustine Washington, married Jane Washington, the eldest child of Colonel John Augustine Washington, who was a full brother of George Washington. It is from this union of a nephew and niece of George Washington that William Lanier Washington is descended in the eldest male line.

The genealogical table of William Lanier Washington shows that he is the ninth in direct male descent from Colonel John Washington, the first American member of the family.

John Washington emigrated to America from England in 1657 and settled in Westmoreland county, Va. His eldest son was Lawrence Washington. The second son of the latter was Augustine Washington 1st, father of George Washington by his second marriage with Mary Ball. By Augustine Washington 1st's first marriage he had four children, only one of whom, Colonel Augustine Washington 2d, left issue. His only son, Colonel William Augustine Washington, as stated above, married Jane Washington, who was the daughter and eldest child of Colonel John Augustine Washington, younger full brother of George Washington. There were other children who left descendants, from whom several families in Virginia and West Virginia trace their descent to this day.

The son of Colonel William Augustine and Jane Washington was Colonel George Corbin Washington, born in 1780. He was a member of congress and Indian commissioner and was mentioned for the vice presidency of the United States. The eldest son of the latter was Colonel Lewis William Washington, born in 1812, and his eldest son was Major James Barroll Washington. William Lanier Washington is the eldest son of Major Washington.

He is married, but has no son to inherit his status.

MEN live in deeds. For good or ill
Their acts survive, and not until
Time is no more can it be said,
"The man is dead."

LIVED one who Freedom's standard raised—
Lived, fought and passed; was blamed and praised;
Was crowned a hero in his day,
Then passed away.

A PEOPLE from oppression
freed,
By him torn from a tyrant's greed,
Became a nation; lived and thrived
Because he strived.

THE heart that for his people's woes
Found courage to oppose their foes
Still pulsates in the nation's breast—
His grand behest.

GREAT Washington! Each passing year
But makes thy memory more dear;
Each year but adds unto thy fame,
Exalts thy name.

YOUR deeds live on, and in them you.
Your hand still guides. A purpose
true
The nation's heart inspires. Lead on,
Brave Washington!

When Washington Was Defeated.
Washington was defeated in his first race for election to the Virginia house of burgesses by the candidate of the liquor interests. The young soldier had angered the tavern keepers and their friends by inveighing against drunkenness among the troops in his command.

"WAR A PLAGUE TO MANKIND"—WASHINGTON.

Washington said in speaking of war at the close of the Revolution, "My first wish is to see this plague to mankind banished from off the earth." Nevertheless, throughout his life he was always ready to fight for causes believed to be right.

Washington's personal bravery was one of his chief traits. Jefferson said, "He was incapable of fear, meeting personal dangers with the calmest unconcern."

Washington had many enemies, some of whom did their utmost to destroy letters and other evidences of their disaffection after they discovered that the general was destined to immortal fame as the first of the patriots.

Washington's dearest friend, gained during his military service prior to the Revolution, was Dr. James Craik, who attended the future president through two serious illnesses. After the Revolutionary war Dr. Craik became the Washington family physician at Mount Vernon.

WASHINGTON UNDER CARPET.

Owner Had to Hide Portrait to Save It From Soldiers.

One of the best Washington portraits in existence, the Prun portrait, is totally unknown to the great majority of the American public, since no reproduction of it has ever been made, but it was exhibited in New York for a short time in the Van Cortlandt mansion.

The Prun portrait presents the Washington familiar to us in the many Gilbert Stuart portraits, but it is perhaps one of the very best that ever came from that artist's brush. It shows a General Washington full of life and vigor, with a ruddy coloring and a very ruddy nose. It belongs to Mrs. William Gorham Rice of Albany, N. Y., who is a member of the Prun family.

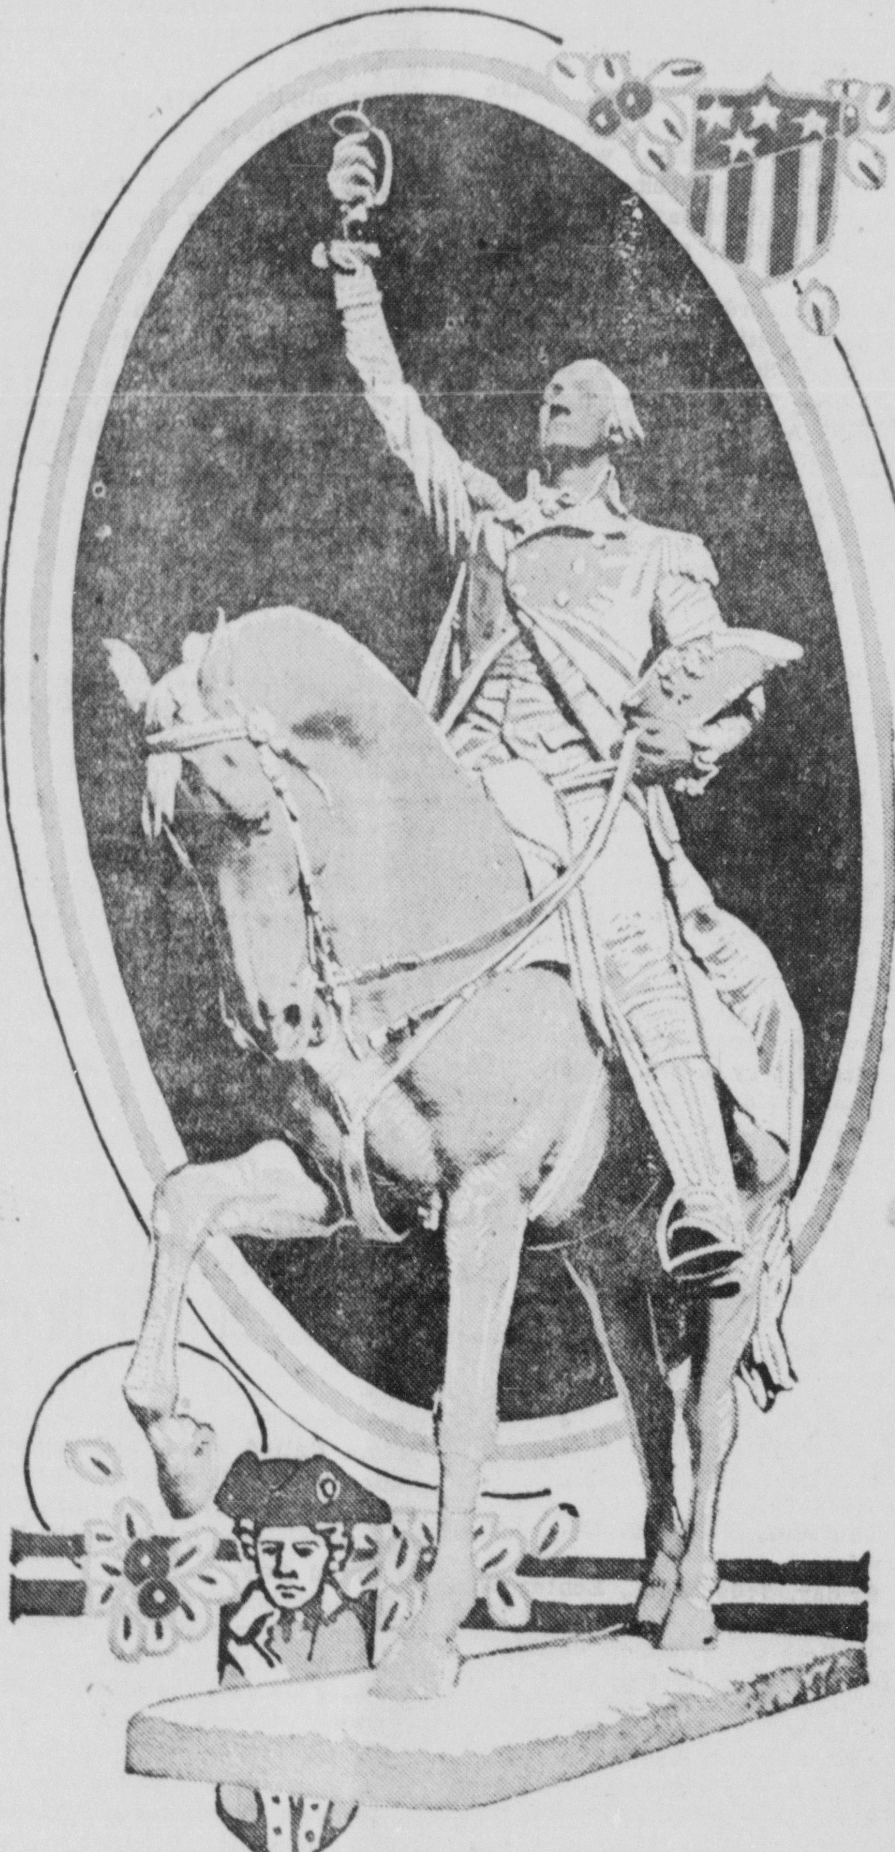

This portrait is Washington's family portrait of himself and hung on the walls of Mount Vernon during his residence there. At his death it fell to the share of one of his four nephews, George Steptoe Washington.

This Mr. Washington lived near Falmouth, on the north side of the Rappahannock, and the portrait occupied a prominent place on his walls until the civil war. Then his homestead was suddenly filled with Union troops. To save the portrait its owner hastily ripped it from the frame and placed it underneath the carpet in one of the bedrooms. As luck would have it, General Hancock chose to occupy that room during his stay in Falmouth and tramped unwittingly back and forth over the Father of His Country. But the portrait was well protected by the carpet and is in fine condition.

After the war was over it was hard lines for the Steptoe Washingtons, and they sold the portrait with other heirlooms. The purchaser of the picture was John V. L. Prun of Albany, N. Y.

WASHINGTON IN WAR

WITH unsheathed sword uplifted to the sky,
In solemn thought of all the future bore
Of deadly shock and long drawn battle roar,
He took command as sent him from on high.
No halting look in that imperial eye
That saw the blood red years of war in store,
Nor could the sphinxlike face stern duty wore
Make him afraid to fight for her or die.
—Horace Spencer Fiske.

The Washington Hatchet Story

Here It Is In Its Original Form, as Told In Weems' "Life."

WHEN George was about six years old he was made the wealthy master of a hatchet, of which, like most little boys, he was immoderately fond and was constantly going about chopping everything that came in his way. One day in the garden, where he often amused himself hacking his mother's pea sticks, he unluckily tried the edge of his hatchet on the body of a beautiful young English cherry tree, which he barked so terribly that I don't believe the tree ever got the better of it. The next morning the old gentleman, finding out what had befallen his tree, which, by the bye, was a great favorite, came into the house and with much warmth asked for the mischievous author, declaring at the same time that he would not have taken 5 guineas for his tree. Nobody could tell him anything about it. Presently George and his hatchet made their appearance.

"George," said his father, "do you know who killed that beautiful little cherry tree yonder in the garden?" This was a tough question, and George staggered under it for a moment, but quickly recovered himself, and, looking at his father with the sweet face of youth brightened with the inexpressible charm of all triumphant truth, he bravely cried out: "I can't tell a lie, pa; you know I can't tell a lie. I cut it with my hatchet!"

"Run to my arms, you dearest boy," cried his father in transports; "run to my arms! Glad am I, George, that you ever killed my tree, for you have paid me for it a thousandfold. Such an act of heroism in my son is more worth than a thousand trees, though blossomed with silver and their fruits of fairest gold!"

WASHINGTON'S TRIUMPH.

How the Surrender of General Cornwallis Impressed a French Observer.

In the diary of Baron Closen, a young Frenchman who came to America with Rochambeau and acted as interpreter between the French general and Washington, are to be found many interesting references to the American chieftain and his career. In Closen's account of Cornwallis' surrender he says:

"At 2 o'clock the garrison of York marched out before the allied army, which was formed in two lines, the French standing opposite to the Americans and wearing their gala uniforms. While passing between the two lines the English showed the greatest contempt for the Americans, who, to say the truth, did not cut much of a figure compared with our army in appearance and equipment, for the greater part of these unfortunates were dressed in little white cloth jackets, dirty and ragged, and many of them were almost barefooted. The English had given them the nickname 'Jankey Doodle.'"

"But what of that? The sensible man will ask. These people are all the more praiseworthy and brave for fighting as they do, when they are so badly provided with everything."

Of what he saw in the conquered town Closen writes:

"I shall never forget how awful its aspect was. One could not take three steps without finding great gashes made by bombs, fragments, fissures, bullets, partially filled trenches, scattered arms and legs of whites and negroes, pieces of uniforms. Most of the houses had been shattered by cannon balls."

"We found Lord Cornwallis at his headquarters. He is a man of noble soul, magnanimous and firm. He seemed to be saying: 'I have nothing for which to blame myself. I have done my duty and defended myself as long as it was possible.'"

Washington Served Without Pay.
Washington served without pay during the eight years of his command of the Continental armies, but he declared that "£50,000 would not induce me again to undergo what I have done."

In George and Martha's Courting Days.

The beaux and belles were courtly when
In powdered wigs they met;
The dames were prim and stately when
They entertained, and yet
Theirs may to us seem curious ways—
In George and Martha's courting days.

The world seemed young, all nature fair,
When George a-courting went,
Yet if we look, perchance, we'll find
To gain the dame's consent
He sang to her Love's sweetest lays—
In George and Martha's courting days.

For lovers loved the same as now,
And maids were shy and coy,
And passion burned within the heart
And turned to grief or joy,
And Love's fire kindled to a blaze—
In George and Martha's courting days.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION BUST OF MARTHA WASHINGTON.

Imagine, if we can, the time
When George, in velvet coat,
Sent perfumed notes to Martha's bower
Or lovelorn verses wrote,
When Cupid sent his piercing rays—
In George and Martha's courting days.

And when, perchance, he went to woo
Mayhap his snowy lace
At wrist and throat just brushed across
His blushing lady's face
And eyes met eyes in fondest gaze—
In George and Martha's courting days.

So picture to yourself her smile
As there on bended knee
The lover knelt by Martha's side
And vowed his constancy,
For theirs were lovers' old, sweet ways—
In George and Martha's courting days.
—Albert Hardy.

Did Washington Swear?

The oft repeated story of Washington's profanity at the battle of Monmouth is strenuously denied in Marion Harland's autobiography, and upon the best authority—that of a Revolutionary veteran, Stirling Smith by name, who was uncle to Marion Harland's grandfather. "He did not swear," the old warhorse would thunder when irreverent youngsters retailed the slander in his hearing. "I was close behind him—and I can tell you, sir, we rode fast—when what should we meet running away, hickety-split from the field of battle with the British almost at their heels, but Gen'l Lee and his men. Then, with that, says Gen'l Washington, speaking out loud and sharp—says he: 'Gen'l Lee! In God's name, what is the meaning of this ill timed prudence? Now, you see, Gen'l Lee, he was mighty high spirited. So he speaks up as haughty as the gen'l had done, and says he: 'I know of no one who has more of that most damnable virtue than your excellency.' So you see, young man, it was Gen'l Lee that swore and not Gen'l Washington. Don't you ever let me hear that lie again!"

APPEAL FOR INTERVENTION

Rome, Feb. 20.—The situation resulting from the intervention riots continues serious, although the police and military authorities promise that there will be no further disorder. Streets were filled with throngs of men and women who paraded about singing patriotic hymns and shouting "Down with Austria" and "Long live Trente and Trieste."

For a time the house of parliament was in a state of siege, thousands of citizens surrounding the buildings and listening to the speeches of impromptu orators who pleaded for Italian intervention on the side of the allies and for the recovery of Trente and Trieste from Austria. The soldiers who guarded the capital were cheered repeatedly. A guard of soldiers has been placed at the German and Austrian embassies.

ENGLISH STAND IS MADE CLEAR

All Foodstuffs For Germany Considered Contraband.

WILHELMINA'S CARGO SEIZED

England's Reply.
Great Britain's reply to the American note on the Wilhelmmina case, which was handed to Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador follows:

"The communication made by the United States ambassador in his note to Sir Edward Grey of the 16th inst. has been carefully considered and the following observations are offered in reply:

"At the time when his majesty's government gave directions for the seizure of the cargo of the steamship Wilhelmmina, as contraband, they had before them the text of a decree made by the German federal council on the 25th of January under article 45, by which all grain and flour imported into Germany after the 31st day of January was declared deliverable only to certain organizations under direct government control or to municipal authorities. The vessel was bound for Hamburg, one of the free cities of the German empire, the government of which is vested in the municipality. This was one of the reasons actuating his majesty's government in deciding to bring the cargo of the Wilhelmmina before a prize court.

"Information has only now reached them that by a subsequent decree dated the 6th day of February the above provision in article 45 of the previous decree was repealed, it would appear, for the express purpose of rendering difficult the anticipated proceedings against the Wilhelmmina. The repeal was not known to his majesty's government at the time of the detention of the cargo, or indeed until now. How far the ostensible exception of imported supplies from the general government monopoly of all grain and flour set up by the German government may affect the question of the contraband nature of the shipments seized is a matter which must suitably be investigated by the prize court."

British Foreign Secretary Grey Announces It Will Be Held For the Decision of the Prize Court—Great Britain's Reply to the American Note Handed to Ambassador Page. Essence of the Message.

London, Feb. 20.—The British government announces that it has decided that the cargo of the American steamer Wilhelmmina should be held for the decision of the prize court.

Tais announcement was made by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary. It seems to make clear the purpose of Great Britain to declare all foodstuffs for Germany contraband, as well as to foreshadow other reprisals. In his note Grey, after reviewing the German methods of warfare, says:

"If, therefore, his majesty's government should hereafter feel constrained to declare foodstuffs absolute contraband, or to take other measures for interfering with German trade by way of reprisals, they confidently expect that such action will not be challenged on the part of neutral states by appeals to laws and usages of war whose validity rests on their forming an integral part of that system of international doctrine which, as a whole, their enemy frankly boasts the intention to disregard, so long as such neutral states can not compel the German government to abandon methods of warfare which have not in recent history been regarded as having the sanction of either law or humanity."

ZAPATISTAS PUSHED BACK BY OBREGON

USE OF STARS AND STRIPES BY BRITISH SHIPS

Washington, Feb. 20.—Communication between Mexico City and Vera Cruz is now interrupted. Tampico is also said to be cut off. It is doubted if Consul Silliman, who has been instructed to go to Vera Cruz to be a medium of communication with Carranza, has been able to reach the coast city.

The Carranza agency here reported that the Zapata forces which have been operating in the suburbs of Mexico City for some time have been defeated by troops under General Obregon's command. The agency also claims that Carranza is receiving large accessions to the forces under his command through the desertion of the convention cause by various military leaders.

The agency also asserted that Carranza will see that full justice is done in the case of W. G. Jenkins, consular agent of the United States at Puebla, who was taken out by a firing squad of Carranzistas to be shot. He was saved from execution only by the accident of a Carranza officer passing that way and giving him an opportunity to establish his identity.

According to Carranza advices a general attack on Monterey proper is now in progress. A total of about 22,000 men is engaged.

Duval West, recently appointed a special representative of President Wilson, left El Paso for Aguas Calientes, where he will confer with Villa. West is accompanied by George C. Carothers, another special representative, and Deputy Marshal Ed Bryant, who has been assigned to the party as interpreter. The party will remain in Chihuahua until Villa arrives at Aguas Calientes.

Friction between Zapata and Villa has developed through Villa's assumption of the provisional presidency, according to advices received by Carranza agents here. These declare that a pact was formed by Villa and Zapata at the time of the meeting in Mexico City whereby neither would assume the provisional presidency. Now Zapata is declared to have formally renounced allegiance to Villa.

PANAMA PACIFIC EXPOSITION IS FORMALLY OPENED

San Francisco, Feb. 20.—Dawn today in this city was acclaimed by salvos of artillery from the batteries on both sides of the Golden Gate and from the warships at anchor in the bay. Five minutes later twenty drum corps rolled through the streets, shrilling to all the town a call to rise and welcome the opening of the Panama-Pacific International exposition. President Wilson sent by wireless the vivifying spark that energized the exposition.

Then followed the parade, but it was a parade like no other—a parade as nearly as possible without spectators. By tens of thousands, in societies and fraternities, in civic, neighborhood and business organizations, the people had enrolled. As they approached the entrance to the concourse fronting the Tower of Jewels there were assembled in the California building at 9 o'clock the president and vice president of the exposition, directors of the state exposition, the exposition commission, the woman's board, representatives of the army and navy, directors of divisions, chiefs of departments, heads of bureaus and others.

Five minutes later the dedicatory ceremonies, simple and brief, began. Invocations and a benediction were pronounced by clergymen representing the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths. Addresses were delivered by President Moore, Secretary Lane of the department of the interior, representing President Wilson; Governor Johnson, Mayor Ralph and others.

The lady jury was out longer than the importance of the case would warrant.

The judge grew impatient.

"What's the trouble in there?" he said to the bailiff.

"I'll see," replied the bailiff.

"Hold on," cried the judge. "Tell 'em if there's any knotty points about the case that bother them they should appeal to me."

"Yes, your honor."

The bailiff goes to the door of the jury room and returns.

"Well?"

"They ain't got to the case yet, your honor. They're still discussin' the plaintiff's clothes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer

MRS. J. M. BRIGGS LAID TO REST

An immense concourse of people gathered at Grace M. E. church Friday afternoon at two o'clock in farewell tribute to Mrs. Joseph M. Briggs.

A member of one of the most extensive and oldest families of the county and having a large family connection also on the side of her late husband relatives and friends drove from every section of Fayette, expressing high regard for the deceased as well as the utmost sympathy for her family in the shock of their sudden grief.

Rev. Frederick E. Ross conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Rose, of South Salem, the former family pastor at Camp Grove church.

The officiating minister followed a line of thought occasioned by the suddenness of Mrs. Briggs' death, impressing the frailty of earthly hopes. Rev. Ross indulged in a little reminiscent talk from his personal friendship. While speaking warmly of Mrs. Briggs' many strong characteristics, the minister lingered longest upon her greatest qualification, that of the mother, who found her greatest pleasure in the family circle.

The hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Face to Face" were beautifully sung by Mrs. Welter Shoop and Mrs. Arthur Bruggert, Mrs. Frank M. Blessing, accompanist.

A wealth of lovely flowers surrounded and heaped the casket.

A long line of carriages formed procession from the church to the cemetery for the interment in the family lot. The pall-bearers were Major Briggs, of Frankfort; Roy McCoy, of Mt. Sterling; Charles Briggs, West Briggs, Charles and George Melvin.

Relatives from a distance were:

Mr. and Mrs. Will James, Muncie, Ind.; Mrs. W. J. Burnett, Cummings, N. Dakota; Mrs. John Stitt, Frankfort, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Major Briggs, Frankfort, O.; Mrs. John Ott, Mrs. Elias Hutton, Miss Irene Paul, all of Frankfort, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Briggs, Mrs. Lizzie James, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, Austin, O.; Mrs. Belle Putman, Mrs. Will Trivello, Frankfort, O.; Mrs. Chas. Snider, Xenia, O.; Mrs. Dorman Niswonger, Dayton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCoy, Mt. Sterling, O.; Mrs. Clay Johnson, Dayton, O.; Mr. Harry Gray, Cincinnati.

MEMOIR.

Sarah Jane McCoy was born near Washington C. H., Ohio, August 28, 1847 and died February 16, 1915, aged 67 years, 6 months and 14 days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram McCoy, the family being long and prominently known in this region.

She was married to Mr. Joseph M. Briggs, of Frankfort, O., December 30, 1869. For 37 years they made their home on the Chillicothe pike, 5 miles east of town. Seven years ago they removed to town. Mr. Briggs died in May, 1910, the widow surviving him almost five years.

Shortly after her marriage Mrs. Briggs united with the Methodist Episcopal church at Camp Grove, O., afterward transferring her membership to Grace church of this town.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ora Divans, of Good Hope; Mrs. Horace Gray, of Dayton, and Miss Margaret Briggs, and by one son, Luther A.; also two grandchildren, Joseph and Margaret Jane.

Mrs. Briggs will be remembered as a woman of the best womanly qualities. Devoted to her home and family she found her greatest pleasure within the family circle. There she was herself and there her presence was a benediction. She met life's cares and sorrows with fortitude and faith. She was never too busy to forget her duty to others, and there are many who bear testimony to her unselfish interest in their welfare.

Mrs. Briggs possessed strong religious convictions and firmness of character. She was not ashamed of her beliefs. If reserved in the expression of her faith, it was not because of any fear. In quiet, unfeigned fidelity she lived her life, and of her it may be said, "She hath done what she could." Of late years impaired health brought on much pain and discomfort. It was a privation to her to be denied the privileges of God's house. But her heart was fixed and her spirit did not repine. The Saviour's presence was her supreme solace and joy. The last enemy came with startling suddenness. But her life had made her ready for the summons. Released at last from pain she paid the debt of nature, and passed to that realm where the spirits of the just made perfect live in glorious reunion and unfeigned joy.

A. I. U. CHAPTER HOLDS MEETING

Fayette chapter No. 592, A. I. U., met in regular session Friday night, and 24 new candidates received the obligations of the order.

The following committee was appointed to confer with the Chillicothe chapter with a view to having the staff of that city, institute the lodge at an early meeting in this city: Dr. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyer, Albert Snyder, Mrs. Chas. Sever. The committee also is to secure a hall in this city where the meeting can be held.

Mr. H. W. Gordon, of Columbus, presided over the Friday night meeting. Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe have been chosen to attend the Panama Pacific exposition, remaining three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant are candidates for a similar trip.

O. W. U. GLEE CLUB STRONGER THAN EVER

A vast number of local citizens are looking forward to the coming, on Friday evening, February 26th, of the Ohio Wesleyan University Glee club, which is under the very capable management of Mr. Winchell Craig, of this city.

One of the strongest features of the entertainment this season is the string quartet—something decidedly out of the ordinary, and something that has made a pronounced hit this season.

The club of well known entertainers, assisted by Miss Jackson, the reader, will appear at the High school auditorium, and a big crowd is expected to enjoy the entertainment.

C. H. & D. WILL USE THE N. & W. TRACKS

It has been announced that after March 1st the C. H. & D., which has abandoned the use of the D. T. & I. tracks into Ironton, following a disagreement over rentals, will use the N. & W. tracks for hauling large quantities of coal from the Ohio river neighborhood to Chillicothe, where it will be taken in charge by the C. H. & D. and brought through this city and on westward.

The officials of the road believe that by the new arrangement much time can be saved, and larger quantities of freight shipped.

This is expected to increase the freight business on the Wellston division of the C. H. & D.

HAS INVITED LOCAL VETERANS TO SUPPER

Mr. Will Campbell has issued an invitation to the members of both posts of the G. A. R. in this city, to be his guests at the Men's annual supper at Grace church next Thursday night, in memory of the late Col. B. H. Millikan, who always was a general favorite in G. A. R. circles and who, for several years, was chairman of the men's supper committee.

Nearly every member of the posts will, in all probability, attend the supper.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION TO MEET

The regular meeting of the Fayette County Board of Education will be held next Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock, at the office of county superintendent, F. M. Allen.

Business of importance will probably be transacted.

The Willing Workers of East End Chapel will hold a sale of home-cooked eatables, next Saturday, Feb. 27, at the Summers' Piano store.

A Matter of Taste.

The Woman—I'd rather live on bread and water than on charity. The Trump—Yes, mum; there's no accountin' fer taste.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"THE THINGS THAT COUNT."

Southern—3 days, Feb. 22-23-24. "The Things That Count", William A. Brady's big delightful comedy success of love, laughter, tears and honor, which ran for over eight months in New York last season, will be the attraction at The Southern for three days beginning with a special matinee Washington's birthday, Monday, February 22, and will be presented here with the original New York company and production exactly as played in New York last season.

"The Things That Count," has been universally endorsed by the leading clergy of every denomination; the department heads of the Boards of Education; famous critics all over the country; eminent writers and prominent people in every walk of life. It is also one of the very few plays endorsed by the Catholic Theatre Movement Committee, an organization founded by Cardinal Farley of New York City for the purpose of recommending clean and wholesome plays, as well as the Drama League of America and the General Federation of Women's clubs. This play was produced early last season in New York City at a time when the stage was overcrowded with white slave and sex plays and has been universally credited with having started the commendable reaction against this kind of entertainment and has been referred to by all the leading critics as "the play that led the public back to stage decency."

"The Things That Count" tells the story of an on-the-level girl whose trials stir your very soul with emotion while the comedy episodes, following one another in rapid succession, keep your lips continually wreathed in laughter. You laugh with a tear in your eye and you cry with a smile on your lips but you do not blush for the play is absolutely clean and devoid of suggestion of any kind that could possibly offend the most refined and cultured. It is a story of the ties of blood, of the love of mothers for their children, the holiest and in some cases the fiercest passion of the race. It is not a goody-goody play, yet the clergymen of every denomination urge their people to see it, educators send their teachers and pupils for it contains more laughs, more thrills, more tears than any other play but is absolutely clean. Your girl won't blush, your wife won't be indignant, your daughter won't wonder; your mother won't regret it for it hits you in the ribs, tickling your heart with joy and all will laugh, cry and be happy together with nothing to explain to conscience afterward. The things that count are love and trust and simple homely joys; is a truth we gather from the play; which is triumph of simplicity.

If life has left a bitter taste for you see "The Things That Count". If you are seeing things awry, this heart mastering little comedy will set them straight for you. Its memory will live with you long afterward, hauntingly, as a Dickens' tale. It rests tired men. It cheers dispirited women. And do not lose sight of the fact that it amuses children. The Christmas tree party of the children in the tenement will charm any child from eight to eighty.

Popular priced matinee will be given Washington's birthday and Wednesday with best seats ranging from 25 cents to $1.00.
